Nutzen

All ADG's WBTs follow a learner-friendly and practitioner-oriented didactical approach, combining the delivery of technical knowledge through motivating and small e-learning modules. This means:

- You will be provided with various interactive learning elements, such as scenarios, which will help you to apply what you have learnt and to transfer it to your daily working routines.
- You will get a basic understanding of how to successfully lead other people in a team.
- The course will enable you to initiate, encourage, and enhance motivation within your team members, but also yourself.
- You will learn how to identify your purpose, your personal "why" and your own leadership style and motivational drivers.
- The course can help you achieve your personal and organisational goals and prevent you from losing your personal "right track", even in times of crisis.
- You will learn how to apply techniques like delegation, communication and problem-solving methods.
- You have the opportunity to enhance and deepen the knowledge you have gained through reflection exercises.
- You will be provided with templates like a personal learning journal that you can use continually to self-reflect and incorporate your learnings into your daily working routines.
- Certificate of participation (on demand)
